About Us

Foothills to the Mountain Peaks

Wilkes County is a cornerstone of northwest North Carolina and gateway to the Blue Ridge Mountains. Music and cultural festivals, acres and acres of parks and green spaces, and long, flowing rivers give residents and visitors the feeling of knowing they're in a cultural oasis not far from big city life. It's where many choose to live, work, and play and where industry is thriving.

WILKES COUNTY (pop. 65,806)

Established in 1777, Wilkes is the state's 13th largest county at more than 757 square-miles of foothills and mountains.

We are home to a diverse slate of industries, including Fortune 500 mainstays Tyson Foods and Lowe's Companies, manufacturers of textiles, furniture, and construction materials. We also enjoy strong agritourism and ecotourism.

Wilkes County is a hub for culture, arts, entertainment, festivals, and countless outdoor pursuits.

Wilkes County is easily accessible to major interstates leading to other notable areas in North Carolina, including Charlotte, Greensboro, and Winston-Salem.

NORTH WILKESBORO (pop. 4,247)

Norfolk Southern built its terminus railroad depot near the banks of the Yadkin River. The depot still stands in the heart of downtown North Wilkesboro, the Key City to western North Carolina since the town was founded in 1891. North Wilkesboro is also known as the Town of Two Rivers, which largely defines the nature-loving lifestyle here.

Entrepreneurial roots run deep here, from the beginnings of NASCAR on the North Wilkesboro Speedway to the founding of Lowe's, to the many small businesses in the revitalized downtown area.

Arts and outdoors are two hallmarks of North Wilkesboro. Browse local works in Wilkes Art Gallery, catch a performance by the Wilkes Playmakers, fish along Reddies River in downtown, or enjoy miles of trail on the Yadkin River Greenway.

WILKESBORO (pop. 3,578)

Wilkesboro is a Small Town Main Street Community and has been the county seat since 1778, when the new Wilkes County was formed. The Town of Wilkesboro was incorporated in 1847.

The town maintains its original layout from more than 200 years ago on the south side of the Yadkin River, with a courthouse square, Main Street, and a vibrant downtown.

Wilkesboro recently revitalized its historic downtown to include the Carolina West Wireless Community Commons, a public space that features the Wilkes Communications Pavilion stage, a concert lawn, firepits, and a connector to the Yadkin River Greenway.

Cub Creek Park is adjacent to downtown and contains many amenities, such as baseball fields, basketball and pickleball courts, walking trails, mountain biking trails, trout fishing, a dog park, and picnic shelters. Wilkesboro is also the home of the annual MerleFest, FaithFest, Carolina in the Fall music festival, Teens on the Greens, and Brushy Mountain Peach & Heritage festivals.

RONDA (pop. 559)

Ronda is a hamlet northeast of Wilkesboro and North Wilkesboro along the Yadkin River, one of Wilkes County's largest rivers. The town is a short drive to multiple vineyards and wineries.

Local legend says Ronda was named for the local estate "Roundabout," the residence of Benjamin Cleveland, a colonel in the North Carolina militia during the Revolutionary War. Although a small town, Ronda is known for its access to outdoor activities, vineyard festivals, and exceptional hospitality. Ronda is home to East Wilkes High School, East Wilkes Middle School, and Ronda Clingman Elementary School.

MORAVIAN FALLS (pop. 1,495)

In the foothills of the Brushy Mountains is Moravian Falls, named for its 35-foot waterfall and the brothers of Moravian faith who settled here in 1753. (The Moravian faith grew from what is now the Czech Republic.) Moravian Falls is a popular residential area for families. Wilkes Central High School, Central Wilkes Middle School, and Moravian Falls Elementary School are in Moravian Falls.

Moving In

Welcome Home to Wilkes

Wilkes County was established in 1777 in the foothills of the Blue Ridge Mountains. Early German and Scots-Irish settlers brought to the Appalachian Mountains farming, religion, music, and crafts which are highly celebrated today in our many festivals and cultural offerings.

So, settle in, and find your home in Wilkes County any way you choose: downtown lofts, rustic mountain hideaways, country estates, modern developments, and affordable neighborhoods.

We are an active community that embraces outdoor recreation, camping, festivals, vineyards, orchards, and quaint, small-town environments. The housing opportunities of the county are diverse and significant, and a housing study in 2020 recommended a broad-based approach to address housing.

Whether you seek commercial or residential options, Wilkes County has real estate professionals with a wealth of local knowledge and market expertise in both home ownership and rental markets.

Arts, Culture & History

Wilkes County: A Regional Hub

Wilkes County is bordered by eight western North Carolina counties, each with a cultural landscape that makes our quality of life in this region one to admire. Within our arts and culture communities we find greater regional opportunities for collaborations to produce music in all genres, performing arts, museum exhibits, walking tours, and more.

GALLERIES & PERFORMANCE VENUES

Bleu Moon Productions supports Wilkes County tourism through stage productions, and children's, dessert, and dinner theater performances. The troupe's most notable annual performance, "Tom Dooley: A Wilkes County Legend," attracts an audience of residents and visitors from around the region.

BLUE RIDGE MUSIC TRAILS OF NORTH CAROLINA

In the mountains and foothills of North Carolina, traditional music is part of the fabric of community life. Ballads are sung as they were hundreds of years ago. Fiddlers, banjo players, and other musicians play from porches to stages and keep the music alive. The definitive guidebook for seeking these musical experiences is updated by an initiative led by the Blue Ridge National Heritage Area Partnership and the North Carolina Arts Council, a division of the North Carolina Department of Cultural Resources. Arts councils, tourism agencies, music venues, event organizers, musicians, and dancers also participate in the effort. Learn more: blueridgemusicnc.com

Recreation

Live Your Best Outdoor Life

We have what you are seeking in Wilkes County: pristine forests, cascading waterfalls, rushing rivers, and fly-fish perfect winding streams. Our sense of place is found in the outdoors. It's no wonder western North Carolina is the outdoor industry hub of the East. The Blue Ridge Mountains are the backdrop as the Yadkin River gently flows through its namesake valley, providing a scenic and serene setting for daily life.

PARKS & TRAILS

The 9.2-mile Yadkin River Greenway runs from W. Kerr Scott Dam in Wilkesboro to Smoot Park in North Wilkesboro. While several sections are natural paths and rock dust, the majority is paved and ideal for family walks or bicycling. yadkinrivergreenway.com

Popular N.C. Birding Trail sites in the area include: E.B. Jeffress Park, Lewis Fork Overlook, Mahogany Rock, Stone Mountain Park, Thurmond Chatham, W. Kerr Scott Reservoir, Whippoorwill Academy and Village, and the Yadkin River Greenway. ncbirdingtrail.org

The 1,475-acre W. Kerr Scott Dam and Reservoir offers excellent boating, canoeing, kayaking, fishing, and swimming opportunities. Miles of biking and hiking trails surround the lake, including a 6-mile section of the Overmountain Victory National Historic Trail. 499 Reservoir Rd., Wilkesboro, NC 28697 (336) 921-3390 www.saw.usace.army.mil/Locations/District-Lakes-and-Dams/W-Kerr-Scott

The massive granite dome at Stone Mountain State Park keeps watch over park visitors enjoying nearly every type of outdoor activity – camping, hiking, climbing, fishing, picnicking, horseback riding, and more. There are more than 18 miles of trails, matched by more than 20 miles of designated trout waters. Rock climbing is allowed by permit on the 600-foot granite face of the mountain, and climbers look down on Hutchinson Homestead, a restored mid-19th century mountain farm. Unreserved picnic shelters are available first-come, first-served (reservations suggested). 3042 Frank Pkwy., Roaring Gap, NC 28668 (336) 957-8185
Camping & Shelter reservations: (877) 722-6762 ncparks.gov/stone-mountain-state-park

Dropping almost 200 feet, Stone Mountain Falls is just one of many great features of the area's most popular natural wonder, Stone Mountain State Park. While the hike to the falls is moderately challenging, a set of wooden stairs makes the 1.2-mile trek from the upper trailhead parking lot doable for family groups. A more scenic route from the lower trailhead will take you by the Hutchinson Homestead and the view field to see the granite dome of Stone Mountain as you continue to Stone Mountain Falls, a 3-mile round trip. 3042 Frank Pkwy., Roaring Gap, NC 28668 (336) 957-8185 ncparks.gov/stone-mountain-state-park

W. Kerr Scott Reservoir

Carter Falls is accessed by a 0.5-mile (one way) trail through old-growth forest. Visitors enjoy the falls from a lower area with views from the banks of Big Elkin Creek and an upper area vantage point from a massive rock outcrop. Water flows through various fissures in the rock for approximately 100 feet before dropping to the pool below. Intersection of Pleasant Ridge Rd. & Martin Byrd Rd. Elkin, NC

Rendezvous Mountain Educational State Forest showcases magnificent mountain hardwoods accessible by a series of well-marked trails, accented by exhibits depicting the ecology of the managed forest. Picnic sites are available, as well as a shelter (with reservation) featuring a stone fireplace and ample seating. An amphitheater is also available. 1956 Rendezvous Mtn. North Carolina's oldest operating dragstrip – Wilkesboro Dragway – fuels generational excitement

By Lydia Cobb

What's so cool about drag racing? Anyone can participate! Two drivers line up at the starting line. They race to the finish as fast as they can. That's it, but there's so much more. See for yourself at Wilkesboro Dragway, built nearly 70 years ago.

Here in the land of storied moonshine getaways, where cars were primed to outrun the authorities, drag racing is making a big comeback despite the loss of smaller, family-owned tracks to development around the nation. Here in Wilkesboro, the state's oldest operating dragstrip has new owners who are committed to growing this family-oriented sport.

Wilkesboro Dragway's business owner, Paul Salvatore said, "There's passion and competition on any given race day, from the racers who love to pursue their desire to go fast, to the spectators who love to watch their favorite race car go rounds. From the smell of the burnt rubber on the first burnout until the last car lands in the winner's circle, there is never a dull moment."

Being at the restored dragway means experiencing all the senses. Imagine the scents of race fuels – whether old-fashioned gasoline or the newer additives that smell like blueberries and cotton candy. There is high-spirited cheering! Beyond the 45-acre dragway property are rolling hills in the valley, dotted with cows. All this is the backdrop to high octane excitement.

Fifth-generation Long Island, New York farmer Donnie Olish and family bought the Wilkesboro Raceway Park in April 2021. Olish and his sons came to the Wilkesboro Dragway a few years ago for an event. They fell in love with the track and more importantly, with the community of Wilkesboro.

The Salvatore Family

"People here seem to really care about racing, no matter their age." Cindy Meredith

Donnie and his wife Tracee and family have owned and operated Olish Farms, Olish Petroleum, Olish Landscaping, Olish Trucking, Olish Carting, among other businesses. The boys of the family all share a common bond in drag racing. Their passion for this sport brought them to Wilkesboro the first time, and Olish's desire to see the historic track succeed led him to its purchase.

"We love the competition. We think drag racing is a great sport for young kids, junior dragsters, for everybody," Olish says on his website video. "It's a family sport and a lot of people don't realize that."

Enter Paul Salvatore and wife Cindy Meredith, who own the business side of the track. Salvatore owned and operated PFAB Customs in New York where he rebuilt motors, roll cages, and did custom conversions. He brings this talent to the Wilkesboro Dragway (his prized possession is his 1973 Vega).

Olish was a client with Salvatore's business when they got to talking about the new track. Olish and Salvatore partnered to keep this track operational and generational for all families and enthusiasts in the drag racing community.

"We have been an "outlaw track" for a while with no sanctioning body," Salvatore said. "This season we have been newly sanctioned by the International Hot Rod Association and the American Hot Rod Association."

The dragway, in the Mount Pleasant community of western Wilkes County, has changed hands several times over the decades. Angus Ellis and his sons, Lester, J.C., Bill, and Gwyn, and Angus' brother-in-law, Sam Eller, built the track in 1955. It was originally named the North Wilkesboro Dragstrip. The Ellis family owned the track for the first 21 years of its existence.

"It's taken a little time, and I understand that. Over the course of the last year, we've proven ourselves," Salvatore said. "We're here to do the right thing."

Salvatore and Olish are investing into the track to make upgrades in safety and are adding family-friendly events, car shows, and swap meets. There are plans for live music and festivals in the future. They are also working on a design for a VIP section for corporate sponsors and special events. The track can be rented privately for racing events.

The concession stand offers not just your average hamburgers, hot dogs, and chili. The meat is procured fresh for each event from Apple Brandy Beef, a local, sustainably operated farm.

All that is needed for the track to thrive is a community gathering in the spirit of competition and camaraderie on an historic track with new memories and wins to make.

Education

Wilkes Supports Education

Wilkes County's businesses, leaders, and community members embrace education. We focus on the safety and wellbeing of our children as they learn, grow, become involved in extracurricular activities and service, and learn that their contributions for a better world are already being made.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Wilkes County Schools empowers more than 8,300 youth to lead and succeed in a global economy. The district's 22 schools serve grades pre-K through 13 and maintain a commitment to excellence at all levels.

Expectations for student success are high district-wide and are met through a partnership with the schools, parents, and the community. Leadership is a core tenet of a supportive school education experience. Each of the four middle schools – Lighthouse Certified Schools – participates in the "Leader in Me" program, derived from "The Seven Habits of Highly Effective Teens" written by Sean Covey.

Academically, Wilkes County students outpace the state in graduation rate. Wilkes County High School students – about 1,200 – are participating in more than 100 Career & College Promise courses through Wilkes Community College.

The four traditional high schools are in the North Carolina High School Athletic Association and compete in various sports. Athletic offerings at the high school level include football, men's and women's soccer, basketball, baseball, softball, swimming, men's and women's golf, men's and women's tennis,

"We are blessed with a strong and supportive school community, and we should all work together to ensure our schools are the best that they can possibly be. As Superintendent of Wilkes County Schools, I challenge each of us to do all that we can to make it our best ever. I have no doubt that our students and staff will accomplish great things in 2022-2023, and I look forward to us celebrating their accomplishments with them."

PRIVATE SCHOOLS

Wilkes County is home to two private schools, each backed by a Christian denomination. These private schools serve students in pre-K through 12th grades and provide a strong education for families who choose to enroll their children.

COMMUNITY COLLEGE

Wilkes Community College (WCC), a member of the North Carolina Community College System, is a public, two-year, open-door institution serving the people of Wilkes, Ashe, and Alleghany counties and beyond.

Wilkes Community College prepares learners for success through a range of occupational and technical pursuits as well as pre-baccalaureate programs. Established in 1965, WCC builds on a strong history of meeting the educational needs and cultural interests of students, community, and workforce.

The College has a low student-to-faculty ratio (8:1) and more than 39 programs of study, including Associate degree, diploma, and certificate options. WCC ensures students who successfully complete its programs are prepared to join the workforce or attend another college or university to pursue a four-year degree.

WCC makes a major cultural impact in Wilkes and the surrounding counties as well as operates the Small Business Center to promote entrepreneurial development in the region.

As the area's primary workforce training organization, the College plays a significant role in preparing residents to meet current and future workforce needs. Ongoing changes

Faith in Community

There is an amazing amount of support for those in need in Wilkes County and beyond.

By Lydia Cobb

Nonprofit groups, churches, and government services are in place in Wilkes County to assist people with healthy nutrition, to be clothed, housed, and lifted from poverty.

Anchor Ridge focuses on Appalachia

Anchor Ridge in North Wilkesboro, began in 2011 as Josh Paul Ministries. Josh Paul organized an outreach event for locals in the Appalachian Mountains – now called a Block Party – where more than 200 people came to receive supplies, groceries, and to hear the Gospel.

The Appalachian Mountain region is one of the most beautiful places on Earth, but for many who live within its folds of hills and coves, the region's poverty is some of the most severe in the nation.

"We currently serve about 600 families in Wilkes on a monthly basis," said Andrew Sparks, vice president of Anchor Ridge. The 30,000 square-foot event center operates for families to receive items they need. Anchor Ridge is set up to help in crises by distributing new furniture when housing is lost to disaster; and weekly with food, clothing, shoes, and hygiene kits.

Block Parties are now held about six times a year in the focus areas of North Georgia, East Tennessee, East Kentucky, Virginia, West Virginia, and here in North Carolina.

According to Anchor Ridge, the poverty rate for children under the age of 18 is approximately 60 percent in some Appalachian communities.

Organizing a Block Party is strategic. Anchor Ridge researches potential locations by talking with school principals and counselors in the area of interest. They prayerfully consider in which town the need is greatest, and send flyers home with school kids in the selected town. The whole community is invited.

Imagine two to three 18-wheelers coming into town. Hundreds of people of all ages gather for a day of hot meals, free haircuts, face painting for kids, and the graceful distribution of groceries, clothing, and supplies with the help of partnership organizations like Operation Blessing, World Vision, Feed the Children, and local church and community groups. There is also worship.

"The feeling is very overwhelming and humbling to have that opportunity," Sparks said about what it's like to see a Block Party unfold.

How can you and I help? Sparks said financial gifts are important, but so too is volunteerism. "It's a great place to plug in to volunteer if you're looking for a volunteer opportunity," he said. "Yes, it takes funds to operate, but it's truly volunteering your time, too."

Samaritan's Purse takes God's Love worldwide

In the pre-dawn hours of February 6, 2023, a 7.8-magnitude earthquake devastated several regions in Turkey and Syria. More than 50,000 people have died. Many more are injured, and thousands are left homeless.

As the countries' response teams are aided by international humanitarian operations, a local nonprofit, Samaritan's Purse airlifted a 52-bed Emergency Field Hospital to Turkey near the epicenter of the earthquakes, including tarps, blankets, and solar lights.

With their focus on helping the earthquake victims, they're also working at home.

"We are always looking for new volunteers and talent to add to our incredible teams that serve worldwide," said Gabrielle Bouquet, the media relations coordinator for Samaritan's Purse. "In our U.S. Disaster Relief efforts, volunteers are needed in Georgia to help families recover from devastating tornadoes and in Mayfield, Kentucky and Houma, Louisiana to help families who lost everything start to rebuild."

Samaritan's Purse has a 26,000 square-foot international headquarters in Boone, purchased in 2012 for training, conferences, meetings, and faith-based community events, and a 47,000 square-foot Wilkes Ministry Center opened in North Wilkesboro in 2020. Samaritan's Purse has affiliate offices in Canada, U.K., Australia, Germany, and Korea; field offices in 17 countries; and ministry partners in more than 100 countries.

Founded in 1950 by Bob Pierce, Samaritan's Purse is a nondenominational Christian organization providing spiritual and physical aid to victims of war, natural disasters, disease, famine, poverty, and persecution in more than 100 countries. Relief teams provide clean water, shelter, medical care, nutrition, and much more.

"Everything we do at Samaritan's Purse is done in Jesus' Name because we want people who are in the darkest moments of their lives to know they're not forgotten and that God loves them," Bouquet said.

The eldest son of the late evangelical Christian leader Billy Graham, William "Franklin" Graham III has served as president and CEO since 1979.

FaithFest

PEOPLE. PRAISE. PROCLAIM.

September 16, 2023

The seventh year of FaithFest will take place at the new FaithFest Event Complex in Wilkesboro with an anticipated 20,000 people attending the one-day music festival (soon to be multiple days). Patrons can experience the music of a diverse lineup of musicians, including Austin French, Jason Crabb, Katy Nichole, Cain, CeCe Winans, and Chris Tomlin. The mission of FF is to use a variety of genres in worship music and the Word of God (via testimonies and the preached Word) to unite Believers, save the Lost, bring a community together, and spark a revival.

Festival founder and missionary evangelist Craig Church said, "The best part of FaithFest is being able to see God work in the lives of people, see people saved, marriages put back together, people called to the mission field, the body of Christ unified in worship, and to see people excited about Jesus."

General admission tickets, group tickets, and Platinum passes are available online. FaithFest is a ministry of Craig Church Ministries. Free parking is on the campus of Wilkes Community College. New this year, kids 12 and under are free.*

Wilkes is Working Out Well

Wilkes County is North Carolina's 13th largest county in land mass within the Blue Ridge Mountains. The county seat is the Town of Wilkesboro, which joins the Town of North Wilkesboro by the Yadkin Valley River. Travel east along the same river, following the railroad, to the Town of Ronda. Wilkes County is a part of the North Wilkesboro Micropolitan Area and sits adjacent to the Piedmont Triad Metropolitan Area, the 30th largest in the U.S.

Wilkes County is thriving, with a bustling network of major businesses, state-of-the-art medical facilities, and a robust framework of infrastructure for logistics and technology. The distinguished public education system and the higher education and customized training opportunities provide a knowledgeable, accomplished, and highly skilled workforce.

Thanks to its business-friendly environment, diverse business community, and efficient and cost-effective utilities, Wilkes County is an anchor in northwest North Carolina. In 2021 the state ranked:

- No. 1 for Best State in Business three years in a row by Forbes
- No. 2 for Best Business Climate by Business Facilities Magazine
- No. 2 for State for Business in America by CNBC

INDUSTRY SPOTLIGHTS:

ECMD Building Materials is celebrating 40 years! Based in North Wilkesboro, this partner in the building industry provides a world-class supply chain to builders, remodelers, finish carpenters, and consumers with the materials to complete simple to large-scale projects. ECMD serves thousands of customers nationally through 14 locations and is 100 percent owned by its 1,000 employee-owners.

The Masthead is a Rural Tech Outpost (RTO) created and operated by NC Tech Paths. An RTO is a modern coworking facility that provides for professional work, company-sponsored pods for teams of tech talent, meeting, and community-building spaces for companies large and small, as well as local freelancers, remote employees, and entrepreneurs. A significant portion of these individuals will be graduates from technology education programs sponsored by NC Tech Paths to provide economic mobility for residents of Wilkes County.

The Masthead is in the heart of historic downtown North Wilkesboro in the former headquarters of the Wilkes Journal-Patriot. The name honors this local institution and its proud history within the Wilkes County community.

GROWN & RAISED IN WILKES

The county's agricultural economy is booming – and you can taste it all.

By Lydia Cobb

Welcome to Wilkes County, where more than one in five jobs is agriculture related. Wineries, breweries, and distilleries dot the landscape. Farmers tend to beef cattle, chicken, dairy cows, and freshwater fish. Chefs choose locally raised herbs, vegetables, and fruits. According to Wilkes Cooperative Extension, Wilkes County ranks seventh in the state overall, with an agricultural impact last year of $551 million dollars, making up 36 percent of the county's GDP.

Wilkes County is blanketed by nearly 1,200 farms with an average size of 100 acres. Incredibly, four of these farms are Bicentennial Family Farms, where families have maintained harvests through 200 years and generations of farmers, and 23 Century Farm families are celebrated for 100 years of continuous agricultural heritage.

WINE AND WILKES

More than 50 wineries are within an hour's drive of Wilkes County. The terroir, French for the natural environment where wines are produced, defines the contributing types of soils, topography, and climate which give each regional wine its own flavor and characteristic taste.

The eastern side of the county is part of the Yadkin Valley Viticultural Area (AVA), a seven-county region in northwestern North Carolina. Two vineyards, Raffaldini and Piccione, are part of the Swan Creek AVA, a region known for its mineral-rich soil.

Among North Carolina's 100 counties, Wilkes County ranks in production:

- 2nd for poultry broilers (meat)
- 3rd for beef cattle
- 4th in all cattle and milk cows
- 6th in hay
- 10th in poultry layers (eggs)

Download the Visit NC Farms App and get ready to experience agritourism – the social dimension of agriculture. When you meet and learn from the people growing, raising, and crafting delicious foods and drinks, you are more likely to advocate for locally harvested foods.

SPOTLIGHT ON PICCIONE VINEYARDS

Imagine serenity and fresh breezes with views of the Brushy and Blue Ridge Mountains while you sip dry-style wines from Italian and French varietals. Piccione Vineyards is a boutique vineyard and winery in Swan Creek, just north of Charlotte.

Founded in 2010 and opened to visitors with the tasting room in 2015, Piccione Vineyards continues to bring their family's Sicilian roots to the heart of North Carolina's wine country. In vino salute!

"We genuinely believe that great wine starts in the vineyard and we want every guest to learn about our story and why we take so much pride in how far we have come in a few short years," said Hailey Klepcyk, director of Tasting Room Operations.

A new era is coming with the opening of La Collina this summer. The 7,000 square-foot center will house the expanded tasting room, event hall, wine library, courtyard, and barrel room. An expanded space means various rooms can be rented exclusively for weddings, corporate events, and intimate dinners. Throughout the year, guests can enroll in events that include aroma and tasting workshops to learning how to take care of grape vines.
