Chamber News & Happenings

President Linda Cheek Celebrates 25 Years

Your chamber grew last year by welcoming 70+ new members! “More people are feeling the need to be involved,” said Linda Cheek, Chamber President. “New businesses are coming into the county and joining the established firms we’ve had for generations. Economic growth in the area is surpassing goals and we have hosted more Chamber events than ever!”

With Cheek as president for 25 years, through up- and downturns, a pandemic and recessions, and boom times, too, one thing is constant: Cheek and her team provide us with unparalleled business services and support.

She and her team oversee LEADS groups that generate new business opportunities among members; partnerships, leadership and working groups; strategic plans for business growth; all the ribbon cuttings for new and expanding businesses; and more. The mainstay is a dedicated Chamber staff with expertise and passion for community success – and Linda cheers us on.

Congratulations Linda Cheek on 25 years as Wilkes Chamber of Commerce enters its 78th year!

MORE WAYS TO BE INVOLVED:

Wilkes Women in Leadership

is focused on empowering and inspiring women leaders with quarterly meetings at various Chamber member locations. Each session brings guest presenters and offers relationship building through networking.

Leadership Wilkes is a nine-session leadership enhancement program led by the Chamber. Leadership Wilkes inspires a group of informed and dedicated individuals to tap into their visionary ideas and progressive leadership styles for Wilkes County. The program studies management styles, personalities, community issues, and includes activities and tours that create positive leadership opportunities. Apply for the fall session: wilkeschamber.com/lead.

United Teens in Action is a youth-focused civic engagement program designed for high school juniors to increase meaningful leadership experiences throughout the county. Students participating in UTA are chosen from each of the five high schools, Wilkes Early College, East Wilkes, North Wilkes, West Wilkes, and Wilkes Central. Learn more: wilkeschamber.com/lead.

ABOUT US

North Carolina High Country and the Yadkin Valley

Welcome to the gateway to the Blue Ridge Mountains. Music and cultural festivals, acres of parks and green spaces, and long, swift-running rivers give residents and visitors the feeling of knowing they're in a cultural oasis not far from big city life.

Wilkes County (pop. 66,139)

Established in 1777, Wilkes is among North Carolina's larger counties, with more than 757 square miles. A diverse slate of industries here includes Fortune 500 mainstays Tyson Foods and Lowe's Companies, and manufacturers of textiles, furniture, and construction materials. Wilkes County is a hub for culture, arts, entertainment, festivals, and spacious landscape, attracting visitors seeking agritourism and ecotourism. Wilkes County is an approximate two-hour drive from Raleigh, 80 miles from Charlotte, and 45 miles from Winston-Salem and Hickory, N.C.

Wilkesboro – The County Seat (pop. 3,699)

Wilkesboro is a Mountain Heritage Trout Water City, a Small Town Main Street Community, and has been the county seat since 1778, when Wilkes County was formed. The town was incorporated in 1847 and maintains its original layout from more than 200 years ago on the south side of the Yadkin River, with a courthouse square, Main Street, and a vibrant downtown.

Downtown, the Carolina West Wireless Community Commons features the Wilkes Communications Pavilion stage, a concert lawn, firepits, and a connector to the Yadkin River Greenway. Cub Creek Park is adjacent to downtown and contains amenities such as baseball fields, basketball and pickleball courts, walking trails, mountain biking trails, trout fishing, a dog park, and picnic shelters. Wilkesboro is also the home of the annual MerleFest, Carolina in the Fall music festival, FaithFest in September, Spooktacular in October, Teens on the Greens, and Brushy Mountain Peach & Heritage festivals.

North Wilkesboro (pop. 4,310)

North Wilkesboro is known as the Town of Two Rivers, which largely defines the nature-loving lifestyle here. Those who fish along Reddies River downtown enjoy the urban river scene, plus more natural views along miles of the Yadkin River Greenway. The Rolling Pines Disc Golf Course features 18 baskets on 70 hilly acres.

Entrepreneurial roots run deep, from the beginnings of NASCAR on the North Wilkesboro Speedway and the founding of Lowe's to the small businesses in the revitalized downtown.

Monthly Downtown Read Arouns attract people downtown, where you can visit Wilkes

North Wilkesboro

Art Gallery, catch a performance by the Wilkes Playmakers, and shop in boutiques and eat in cafes and restaurants.

Downtown North Wilkesboro holds the outdoor Yadkin Valley Marketplace, seasonal events and a summer concert series, and the annual Brushy Mountain Apple Festival.

Ronda (pop. 435)

Ronda is northeast of Wilkesboro and North Wilkesboro along the Yadkin River, a short drive to multiple vineyards and wineries and Stone Mountain State Park, and is known for its access to water sports, hiking and cycling trails, vineyard festivals, and Southern hospitality.

Legend says Ronda was named for the local estate "Roundabout," the residence of Benjamin Cleveland, a colonel in the North Carolina militia during the Revolutionary War. Come to the Ronda Roundabout Festival the second Saturday in September!

Moravian Falls (pop. 3,015)

In the foothills of the Brushy Mountains is Moravian Falls, named for its 35-foot waterfall with two cascading drops, and the brothers of Moravian faith who settled here in 1753. Those familiar with the settling of this area have heard tales about heavenly portals and angelic encounters. Moravian Falls is a popular residential area for families.

Regional Center for Entertainment

Early German and Scots-Irish settlers brought to the Appalachian Mountains farming, religion, music, and crafts which are highly celebrated today in our many festivals and cultural offerings. We continue to diversify as new experiences open and expand.

MUSEUMS, TOURS & HISTORIC SITES

Distilling grew from North Carolina's rich agricultural and social history. Auto racing came along from the competitions among moonshiners in the 1930s all the way to today's NASCAR-fueled industry. The North Carolina Department of Natural and Cultural Resources created a Moonshine and Motorsports Trail to highlight this intertwined history. Make an itinerary at: dnrc.nc.gov/programs-services/moonshine-and-motorsports-trail

- Visit Call Family Distillers in Wilkesboro – family distilling since 1868 and now run by the seventh generation of the family. The Mash House Bar & Grill hosts concerts and the tasting room offers the moonshine made legendary by “The Uncatchable” Willie Clay Call. callfamilydistillers.com military history, industry, agriculture, medicine, communication, education, entertainment, and transportation.

The Blue Ridge Music Hall of Fame showcases and preserves the rich musical heritage of the greater Blue Ridge Mountains with exhibits and an annual celebration of inductees. The Hall of Fame is housed in the historic Wilkes County Courthouse.

The free, self-guided Wilkesboro Architecture Walking Tour stops at 13 buildings that collectively reveal the character of Wilkesboro as it developed. Each site serves as an example of the styling and culture of its time. The buildings are within walking distance, and are included in the National Register of Historic Places.

Mead-making in Wilkes County is Abuzz with Adventure

By Lydia Cobb

Every honeybee buzzing from flower to flower helps the world thrive. These humming pollinators stimulate the growth of our fruits, vegetables, and herbs. Wilkes County is dripping with honey cultivated by area beekeepers.

Beekeeping is fundamental to the making of mead, an ancient, golden-hued alcoholic beverage created through the fermentation of honey with water, often with the addition of fruits, spices, herbs, and other natural flavorings.

“Wilkes County has tons of honey and beekeepers in every direction. We source all our honey from the foothills of North Carolina,” said Nico Hogrefe, owner of Stardust Cellars, the state’s first biodynamic winery and meadery that opened in 2018.

Stardust Cellars specializes in making mead and white wines. They use well water and grow without pesticides. Last spring, two lambs were born on the farm who help to graze on weeds without the use of machinery – all pointing to why Stardust is in the biodynamic sustainability echelon.

Is mead wine or beer? Neither. Beer is made by fermenting sugars from malted grains, while wine is made by fermenting sugars from fruits. Mead is made by fermenting the sugars in honey and since honey is not a grain or fruit, mead is in its own category!

Mead types and flavors are as diverse as the flavor profiles created by craft brewers and wine makers. “We have to use local, raw honey because we are a fermentation meadery,” said Hogrefe. The local honey is fermented by the raw honey’s indigenous yeasts and probiotics. No yeast is added.

Hogrefe and his team visit many beekeepers to obtain the honey they need, acknowledging that they need much more quantity and complexity of terroir beyond the hives he has on the farm.

When you sip terroir-driven meads, you experience the flavors of the North Carolina foothills and all the crops in every season. These honeys are made possible by independent beekeepers and established industries across the county and state.

“Each sip of mead is a symphony of flavors, a tribute to the land, and a testament to the dedication of our beekeepers,” said Hogrefe.

RECREATION

Living for Adventure in the Great Outdoors

As the Yadkin River flows through its namesake valley, the Blue Ridge Mountains provide a serene setting for daily life, along with exciting adventures. Let's go!

This outdoor setting is why several outdoor outfitter companies are here: clothes and tools for camping, biking, and hiking in pristine forests, trips to witness cascading waterfalls, boats and gear for rushing rivers, and anglers' gear for fly fishing.

PARKS & TRAILS

Discover the Eddy Merle Watson Garden of the Senses with a diversity of plants that have strong aromas and textures, while featuring Braille-labeled plants and sculptured music and alphabet walls. Open sunrise to sunset.

Rendezvous Mountain showcases magnificent mountain hardwoods accessible by a series of well-marked trails, accented by exhibits interpreting the ecology of the forest. Visitors enjoy the vista views, shaded picnic area, and hiking either the small 1-mile loop or the 4-mile loop which includes a cascading waterfall along Purlear Creek.

The massive granite dome at Stone Mountain State Park keeps watch over park visitors enjoying nearly every type of outdoor activity – camping, hiking, climbing, fishing, picnicking, horseback riding, and more. More than 18 miles of trails are matched by more than 20 miles of designated trout waters.

Dropping almost 200 feet, Stone Mountain Falls is just one of many great features of the park. While the hike to the falls is moderately challenging, a set of wooden stairs makes the 1.2-mile trek from the upper trailhead parking lot doable for family groups. A more scenic route from the lower trailhead will take you by the Hutchinson Homestead, a restored mid-19th century mountain farm, for a 3-mile round trip.

Rock climbing is allowed by permit on the 600-foot granite face of the mountain, and climbers look down on Hutchinson Homestead.

Unreserved picnic shelters are available first-come, first-served.

Carter Falls is accessed by a 0.5-mile (one way) trail through old-growth forest. Visitors enjoy the falls from a lower area with views from the banks of Big Elkin Creek and an upper area vantage point from a massive rock outcrop. Water pours through various fissures in the rock for approximately 100 feet before dropping to the pool below.

EDUCATION

Wilkes County Surrounds Students with Support

Economic development is stronger in communities where the public school system and private and higher education opportunities are outstanding. Wilkes County's businesses, leaders, and community members embrace education, and it shows, with increasing graduation rates and student-centered success in academics, sports, arts, and literacy.

WILKES COUNTY SCHOOLS

Wilkes County Schools has approximately 8,600 students enrolled in grades Pre-K through 13. The goal of the 13 elementary schools, four middle schools, and five high schools is to empower all learners to reach their greatest potential.

The Wilkes County School System is committed to excellence in teaching and to the belief that all students can learn. The faculty, staff, and board members project high expectations for student success through a holistic partnership that embraces school, home, and community. Their vision is to encourage, engage, and empower everyone, every day.

Academically, Wilkes County students outpace the state in graduation rate. Additionally, Wilkes County's high school students – numbering about 1,200 – participate in more than 100 Career & College Promise courses through Wilkes Community College.

The four traditional high schools are in the North Carolina High School Athletic Association and compete in various sports: football, men's and women's soccer, basketball, baseball, softball, swimming, men's and women's golf, men's and women's tennis, volleyball, cheerleading, wrestling, cross country, track and field, indoor track, and newly added women's wrestling, included when the North Carolina High School Athletic Association hosted the first sanctioned Women's Individual State Wrestling Championship this past February.

Wilkes County Schools' students are provided a strong arts experience in music and art in the elementary schools, where they learn fundamental skills and share their talents with the community in and out of school. Courses for middle and high school students focus on developing foundational talents practiced from elementary school. Middle and high schools provide band, chorus, and visual arts courses, from small ensembles, band competitions, participation in state selected Honor Choruses and Bands, performances across the county and state, as well as art showcases in clay, photography, drawing, and more. The Cultural Arts staff is committed to building a community that reflects Wilkes County's rich heritage.

The Stone Center for the Performing Arts is a state-of-the-art performance center inside Wilkes County Schools' Central Office in North Wilkesboro. The 8,000-square-foot center offers performance, banquet, dance, and meeting space for the public school students of Wilkes County.

Wilkes County Schools Career and Technical Education (CTE) offers courses within seven program areas: Agriculture Education; Business, Finance, Marketing Education; Career Development Education; Computer Science, IT, and Technology Education; Family and Consumer Sciences Education; Health Science Education; and Trade and Industrial Education.

There were 5,919 student participants enrolled in Wilkes County Schools CTE courses in the 2022-2023 school year. Each program area aligns with a Career and Technical student organization which students can join to gain leadership experience and guidance in developing a career path.

Each course offers invaluable career readiness skills, and many courses offer industry-recognized credential opportunities. CTE students earned 2,579 credentials in the 2022-2023 school year. These credentials not only enhance student resumes but also enable students to start employment immediately following high school graduation, often with a higher rate of pay. CTE internships and pre-apprenticeships are available for work-based learning experiences through our community industry partners. CTE students who take a level two course beyond the level one course within a pathway have a graduation rate of 98.4%.

PRIVATE SCHOOLS

Wilkes County is home to two private schools, each backed by a Christian denomination: Harvest Time Christian Academy and Millers Creek Christian School. These private schools serve students in Pre-K through 12th grades and provide a quality, values-based education.

WILKES COMMUNITY COLLEGE

Wilkes Community College (WCC), a member of the North Carolina Community College System, is a public, two-year, open-door institution serving the people of Wilkes, Ashe, and Alleghany counties and beyond.

The College offers more than 39 programs of study, including Associate degree, diploma, and certificate options. WCC ensures students who successfully complete its programs are prepared to join the workforce or attend another college or university to pursue a four-year degree.

The college prepares learners for success through a range of occupational and technical pursuits as well as pre-baccalaureate programs. Established in 1965, WCC builds on a strong history of meeting the educational needs and cultural interests of students, community, and workforce.

Through Career & College Promise, qualified high school students in North Carolina can dually enroll in community college courses, tuition-free, in structured pathways that lead to a certificate, diploma, degree, or credential.

WCC makes a major cultural impact in Wilkes and the surrounding counties as well as operates the Small Business Center to promote entrepreneurial development in the region.

As the area's primary workforce training organization, the College plays a significant role in preparing residents to meet current and future workforce needs. The Workforce Development and Community Education Division is responsible for responding to these needs by providing services to individuals, organizations, businesses, and industries within Wilkes, Alleghany, and Ashe counties. Tailored to the needs of our service area, the courses range from basic skills to advanced courses in various technical fields. In addition, a range of vocational courses are offered that are designed to meet the needs and interests of the citizens of the region.

Working With Nature

Sustainable forestry in Wilkes County powers an economy deeply rooted in high quality timber, building lumber, and furniture parts.

Sustainable forestry is about caring for and managing forests that provide us with wood. We also value forest habitats for wildlife and providing stunning landscapes.

Sustainable forestry connects all parts of the forest: trees, smaller plants, soils, wildlife, and water with protection from wildfire, pests, and diseases, and preserving special forests.

“Everybody needs paper and wood, but there are best practices to protect the water and the ecosystem,” said Jeff Matheson, superintendent of Rendezvous Mountain in Wilkes County – a unit of the state park system.

Once called an “Educational Forest,” the 2,000-acre park balances naturally growing forested areas with areas of regrowth from logging and saw milling. The park was operated as Rendezvous Mountain Educational State Forest between 1984 and 2022. School children and landowners alike visited to learn about sustainable forestry.

Like limbs of trees, generations of families in Wilkes County have been involved in forestry and timber. They are family owned and made in the USA:

Meadows Mills, Inc. got its beginning around 1900 at Pores Knob by a mechanically inclined Baptist minister, Reverend W.C.

Meadows. He designed and built a burr mill (grist mill) with stones mounted in a vertical position as opposed to the conventional flat or horizontal mills generally used at the time. He patented the mill and formed the W.C. Meadows Mill Company. Through later acquisitions, investors, and continuous improvements in all lines of equipment, Meadows’ products and services are recognized as high quality Meadows sawmills, hammer mills, and stone burr mills.

Church & Church Lumber Co. are experts in forest management and select and harvest softwoods and hardwoods for the construction industry: red oak, white oak, poplar, hickory, maple, ash, beech, birch, sycamore, cherry, walnut, white pine, Virginia pine, loblolly pine, and Southern yellow pine trees are processed for dimensional lumber, mulch, chips, and sawdust.

Appalachian Lumber Co. was established in 1982 to manufacture hardwood flooring, paneling, stair parts, furniture parts, and custom moulding, working with wholesalers throughout the nation. Their experience in the wood business gives them the ability to source almost any species of wood – specializing in the unique and hard to find.

“I am not sure that I have a favorite wood, but walnut, ash and cherry are at the top of my list,” said William Church, president of Appalachian Lumber Co., now a fourth-generation forest products family. “Wood is a renewable resource. It is like all other cash crops with a window of opportunity for the optimum harvest.”

North Carolina has over 18 million acres of timberland, according to North Carolina State Extension. In Wilkes County, more than 340,000 acres are devoted to timber, with an end mill-delivered value of more than $14.7 million in 2022, the most recent available statistics. The robust forest sector in the state supports forestry and logging operations, sawmills, furniture mills, and pulp and paper industries. The forest sector is a major contributor to North Carolina’s economic wellbeing, supporting communities across all 100 counties in The Tar Heel State.

Agriculture is North Carolina's No. 1 industry. Agriculture and agribusiness, including food, forestry, and fiber, contribute more than $103 billion to the state's economy, according to the North Carolina Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services.

ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT

Working in Wilkes

Wilkes County is a part of the North Wilkesboro Micropolitan Area and is adjacent to the Piedmont Triad Metropolitan Area, the 30th largest in the U.S. We have a network of major businesses, top-notch medical facilities, and infrastructure for logistics and technology.

The distinguished public education system and access to higher education and customized training opportunities provide a highly skilled workforce.

INDUSTRY SPOTLIGHTS:

NASCAR and Speedway Motorsports are bringing the 40th running of the NASCAR All-Star Race back to the historic North Wilkesboro Speedway in May. Last year's NASCAR event made a $50 million impact to the local economy.

The all-new Wilkes County Emergency Services facility officially opened in December 2023. This is home for EMS Base 1 and houses three paramedic ambulance crews, the administrative staff, logistics operations, and emergency training areas.

Contentment is a private golf retreat emerging on 900 acres in Hays next to Stone Mountain State Park. Construction and build-out phases will include a clubhouse with onsite lodging and dining, rustic and elegant member cottages, hiking trails, a fishing lake and a spa, fitness facility, and chapel. A grand opening is anticipated in fall 2025.

Expansion of Select Steel Buildings (SSB) was announced in early 2024. SSB manufactures portable steel buildings, including delivery and installation, and is diversifying the product line to include portable greenhouses, manufacturing garages, and storage sheds, with a steel mill to be built onsite.

INDUSTRY CLUSTERS

- Building Materials – A local hardware store grew into what is the nation's second largest home improvement retailer, Lowe's Companies. Other companies include: ECMD, dreamwalls, LP Building Solutions, Window World, and Church & Church Lumber Co.

BRING YOUR BUSINESS TO WILKES COUNTY

The Wilkes Economic Development Corporation (EDC) facilitates the creation of new jobs and capital investment in Wilkes County. The public-private partnership does this through the retention and expansion of existing businesses and the recruitment of new businesses.

Wilkes EDC assists potential investors and job creators with local, state, and federal incentives and grants. When companies add new jobs, consider new construction, uplift a facility, or invest in machinery and equipment, Wilkes EDC helps determine eligibility and facilitates the grant process.

The Wilkes Commercial Business Center opened last spring and is fully leased. Having this space invites existing companies to grow and new companies to locate in Wilkes County – and add above-average wage jobs and investment.

North Carolina currently provides discretionary and tax incentives to qualifying businesses in Wilkes County based on the county's Tier 1 designation. Wilkes EDC aids area businesses in securing these incentives.
